No matter what the catastrophe is or how bad it gets, there's always going to be a "law" of some sort. In fact, we could actually stop at the word rule: without rule or different rules. There are always going to be rules. We can drop the word "law" because people get really hung up on the specificity of its meaning.

If what Paul says in Romans 1 is true, there is ultimately no such thing as an atheist. Anyone who calls himself one is wrong on at least three fronts. First, someone who claims to be an atheist is suppressing the truth he knows. According to Romans 1, "What can be known about God is plain to them" (v. 19), and their denial is an expression of the fact that they are among those "men, who by their unrighteousness suppress the truth" (v. 18).
